

Don't kill yourself to get ahead.
High performance can and should be fun!

You'll find them in every company: managers and executives who don't understand the importance of fun in the workplace. They can't delegate, they don't really communicate and they use their offices to play politics, making their and their employee's work lives a living hell.

Klaus Schuster doesn't pull any punches in his humorous account of the 11 most common management sins being committed every day in the banking and business world. His first of four management bestsellers in Europe, this book shows that it doesn't have to be that way!

Born in Austria, Klaus Schuster has been a board member and a trouble shooter for large international banks across Europe. Today he runs his own successful consulting company, is a popular motivational speaker and coaches and trains young executives around the world.

11 Management Sins that You Should Avoid

How top managers are killing themselves to have it all: career, relationships and fun